How to Make Money with TikTok: 10 Best Ways to Monetize Your Account

Updated at November 2, 2026

A TikTok account can become a source of income when you combine consistent content with brand partnerships, affiliate offers, creator monetization programs, or your own products.

TikTok has become a major platform for short-form content, but it can also be a useful tool for creators who want to build an online income stream. If you've been searching for how to make money with TikTok, there are several legitimate options beyond simply hoping one of your videos goes viral.

Creators can potentially earn directly through eligible TikTok monetization programs or use their audience to generate income through sponsorships, affiliate marketing, products, services, and other opportunities.

The right approach depends on your niche, audience, location, content style, and eligibility for TikTok's monetization features.

In this guide, we'll explore 10 ways to make money with TikTok, including direct and indirect methods you can consider as your account grows.

EARN 100$ INSTANTLY DOING 2 SHORT SURVEYS (100% GUARANTEED)

1. Join the Creator Rewards Program

The Creator Rewards Program is one of the official TikTok monetization options available in eligible markets.

It is designed to reward eligible creators for qualifying original content. If your account qualifies, you may be able to earn rewards from eligible videos according to the program's current rules.

Many people still search for the TikTok Creator Fund, but TikTok has moved toward the Creator Rewards Program in markets where it is available.

Getting started

Check your TikTok creator tools or TikTok Studio to see whether the program is available for your account.

If you are eligible:

1. Review the current requirements.
2. Apply through the appropriate TikTok creator section.
3. Continue publishing original content.
4. Follow TikTok's monetization and community guidelines.
5. Monitor your qualified views and available rewards.

Not every view is necessarily a qualified view, and earnings are not guaranteed simply because a video receives views.

2. Make Money Through Sponsored Content

Brand sponsorships are one of the most common ways creators monetize an established TikTok audience.

A company may pay you to create content featuring its product or service.

For example, a gaming creator could work with a gaming accessory brand, while a travel creator could collaborate with a travel company.

Sponsored content can include:

* Product demonstrations
* Reviews
* Tutorials
* Unboxing videos
* Sponsored challenges
* Product comparisons
* Educational videos

Your audience does not have to be enormous.

Brands may also be interested in smaller creators who have a focused audience and strong engagement.

What makes an account attractive to brands?

Brands may consider:

* Audience relevance
* Engagement
* Content quality
* Follower count
* Average video performance
* Niche
* Location

* Previous collaborations

If you receive payment or another material benefit for promoting a product, follow the relevant disclosure requirements and TikTok's branded-content rules.

3. Use Affiliate Marketing

Affiliate marketing is another answer to how to make money with TikTok.

Instead of creating your own product, you recommend products from other businesses.

When a viewer makes a qualifying purchase through your affiliate referral, you may receive a commission.

For example, a technology creator could review:

* Smartphones
* Headphones
* Laptop accessories
* Gaming equipment
* Apps
* Software

A home creator could recommend kitchen products, furniture, or organization tools.

The most important factor is relevance.

Your audience should have a genuine reason to be interested in the product.

A simple affiliate content strategy

Instead of saying:

 "Buy this product."

Create content such as:

"3 things I like about this budget microphone."

Then explain what the product does, who it is suitable for, and any limitations.

Helpful content tends to feel more natural than constant advertising.

4. Sell Your Own Products

If you already have a product business, TikTok can become a powerful discovery channel.

You could sell:

* Clothing
* Accessories
* Art
* Handmade products
* Digital downloads
* Templates
* Ebooks
* Courses
* Guides
* Print-on-demand products

For example, a creator who teaches drawing could promote printable worksheets or digital drawing resources.

A fitness creator could create educational videos and promote a workout guide.

A technology creator could sell digital tutorials or resources.

The important thing is to connect the product to the content your audience already enjoys.

5. Promote Your Services

You don't have to sell products to make money from TikTok.

Your skill itself can become the product.

Freelancers can use TikTok to demonstrate their expertise and attract potential customers.

Examples include:

* SEO services
* Web design
* Graphic design
* Video editing
* Copywriting
* Photography
* Tutoring
* Coaching
* Social media management
* Consulting

For example, a graphic designer could post:

"I redesigned this website homepage in 30 seconds."

A video editor could show a raw clip followed by the edited result.

These videos demonstrate ability instead of simply telling viewers that you offer a service.

6. Monetize TikTok LIVE

LIVE content provides another opportunity for eligible creators.

TikTok LIVE can be used for direct interaction with your audience.

Possible LIVE formats include:

* Gaming
* Q&A sessions
* Tutorials
* Music
* Discussions
* Product demonstrations
* Interviews
* Educational content

Depending on the features available in your region and account, viewers may be able to send virtual gifts during eligible LIVE sessions.

A good LIVE session should have a reason for people to stay.

Before going live, prepare a topic and a few talking points instead of relying entirely on spontaneous conversation.

7. Build a TikTok Account Around a Specific Niche

If you want to make money on TikTok consistently, choosing a clear niche can make your strategy easier.

Some potential niches include:

Gaming

Gaming accounts can publish:

* Gameplay
* Tutorials
* Tips
* Game updates
* Reviews
* Guides

Technology

Technology creators can cover:

* Apps
* Gadgets

* Software
* Tutorials
* Comparisons

Beauty

Beauty creators can create:

* Tutorials
* Product demonstrations
* Reviews
* Skincare routines

Fitness

Fitness content can include:

* Exercise demonstrations
* Workout ideas
* Training tips
* General fitness education

Food

Food creators can publish:

* Recipes
* Cooking tutorials
* Restaurant reviews
* Food recommendations

A niche gives you a clearer audience and can make it easier to identify relevant sponsors, products, and affiliate opportunities.

8. Drive TikTok Traffic to Your Website

TikTok can also help you make money indirectly.

You can use videos to introduce viewers to a website or online business.

For example, you could promote:

* A blog
* Online store
* Newsletter
* Course
* Software

* Membership
* Service business
* Mobile application

Imagine you operate a website about photography.

You could publish short videos such as:

"3 camera settings beginners should know."

People who want more information can then visit your website for a longer guide.

The website can generate revenue through products, services, advertising, subscriptions, or other business models.

9. Create UGC-Style Content for Brands

You can also earn by creating short-form content for businesses without necessarily becoming a traditional influencer.

User-generated-content, commonly called UGC, involves creating content that a company can use for marketing.

A brand might hire you to create:

* Product demonstrations
* Testimonials
* Tutorials
* Unboxing videos
* Lifestyle clips
* Short advertisements

In this case, the company may be interested in your ability to create engaging videos rather than the size of your personal TikTok following.

This can be useful for people who enjoy making videos but are still building their own audience.

10. Repurpose Your Content Across Platforms

One original TikTok video can potentially become content for several platforms.

For example:

TikTok → YouTube Shorts → Instagram Reels → Facebook Reels

You can adapt your original videos for different platforms while following their individual rules.

This can help you reach additional audiences and create more opportunities to monetize your content.

However, only use content you own or have permission to use.

How Do You Make Money on TikTok?

If you're wondering how do you make money on TikTok, there are two broad approaches.

Direct monetization

TikTok itself may provide eligible creators with monetization features such as creator programs or LIVE-related features.

Indirect monetization

You can use TikTok to generate income through:

* Brand deals
* Affiliate marketing
* Products
* Services
* Websites
* UGC
* Other businesses

The second category can be especially useful because it doesn't necessarily depend on TikTok paying you for every view.

How to Make Money on TikTok Videos

Your content should be created with a specific audience in mind.

Some formats that can work across many niches include:

How-to videos

Teach viewers how to solve a problem.

Product reviews

Explain the advantages, disadvantages, and use cases of a product.

Comparisons

Compare two tools, products, apps, or approaches.

Tutorials

Break a complicated process into simple steps.

Tips and tricks

Share several useful ideas in one short video.

Before-and-after content

Show a transformation or improvement.

These formats can support monetization naturally because they give viewers useful information while creating opportunities to introduce relevant products or services.

How to Get Monetized on TikTok

If you're specifically searching for how to get monetized on TikTok, start by checking the monetization features available in your account.

TikTok's eligibility requirements vary by program and location.

A practical approach is:

1. Create original content.
2. Build a genuine audience.
3. Maintain good account standing.
4. Follow TikTok's Community Guidelines.
5. Open TikTok Studio or the relevant creator tools.
6. Review the monetization programs available to you.
7. Check the current eligibility requirements.
8. Apply when your account qualifies.

Don't assume that an eligibility requirement listed in an old blog post still applies today.

TikTok can update its programs, requirements, and availability.

TikTok Creator Fund vs. Creator Rewards Program

The TikTok Creator Fund is an older term that still appears frequently in searches.

TikTok has introduced the Creator Rewards Program in markets where it is available.

If you are researching how creators get paid for TikTok videos, focus on the current program available to your account rather than relying on outdated Creator Fund information.

The exact availability and requirements can depend on your country.

Creator Rewards Program in the Philippines

If you're searching for the Creator Rewards Program in the Philippines, check the latest information shown in your TikTok creator tools.

TikTok's monetization features are not necessarily identical across all countries.

Before creating a financial plan around a specific program, verify whether it is currently available in the Philippines and review the applicable requirements.

Can You Make Money on TikTok Without Going Viral?

Yes, different monetization methods can work without relying entirely on viral content.

For example, a creator with a small but highly targeted audience could potentially earn through:

* Affiliate products
* Freelance services
* Digital products
* Sponsorships
* Product sales

A creator with a large audience may have more opportunities, but audience size is only one part of the equation.

Engagement, trust, niche, and audience relevance can also matter.

How Much Money Can You Make With TikTok?

There is no universal income figure for TikTok creators.

Your earnings can vary depending on how you monetize.

For example:

Monetization method | What can affect earnings

Creator programs | Qualified views and program rules
Brand deals | Audience, niche, campaign requirements
Affiliate marketing | Clicks, conversions, commission
Products | Sales, pricing, profit margin
Services | Clients and service rates
LIVE | Audience participation and available features
UGC | Number and value of client projects

This is why follower count alone does not determine how much money someone can make with TikTok.

Tips for Making Money on TikTok

Create content for one clear audience

A specific audience makes it easier to create relevant videos and choose suitable monetization methods.

Give viewers a reason to follow

Don't make every video a sales pitch. Teach, entertain, demonstrate, or solve a problem.

Keep improving your videos

Test different hooks, topics, formats, and video lengths.

Use analytics

Look at watch time, engagement, shares, comments, profile visits, and other available metrics.

Choose relevant products

Affiliate products and sponsorships should make sense for your audience.

Protect your reputation

Avoid misleading claims about products or income.

Diversify your income

As your account grows, consider multiple monetization channels rather than depending on a single one.

Common Mistakes New TikTok Creators Make

Trying to monetize too early can sometimes make an account feel overly promotional.

Common mistakes include:

* Buying followers
* Buying fake engagement
* Copying other creators
* Reposting copyrighted videos
* Promoting unrelated products
* Making unrealistic earning claims
* Ignoring disclosure requirements
* Spamming affiliate links
* Focusing only on follower count

A strong TikTok account is built around content that people actually want to watch.

Frequently Asked Questions

How do I make money with TikTok?
You can potentially earn through creator programs, LIVE features, sponsorships, affiliate marketing, products, services, UGC, and by sending TikTok traffic to another business.

Can you make money on TikTok with a small following?
Yes. Some methods, such as services, affiliate marketing, and selling digital products, can be pursued with a relatively small but relevant audience.

How do you make money on TikTok videos?
Eligible creators can explore official TikTok monetization programs, while other creators can monetize videos through sponsorships, affiliate products, services, and other business opportunities.

How do you get monetized on TikTok?
Check TikTok Studio or your creator tools for the programs available to your account and review their current requirements.

Is TikTok Creator Fund still available?
TikTok has moved toward the Creator Rewards Program in markets where it is available. Check the current options shown for your account.

Can TikTok pay you for views?
Eligible creator programs can provide rewards based on qualifying activity, but not every TikTok view automatically results in payment.

Final Thoughts

If you're learning how to make money with TikTok, start by understanding the difference between platform monetization and business monetization.

The Creator Rewards Program and eligible LIVE features can provide direct opportunities, while sponsorships, affiliate marketing, products, services, UGC, and website traffic can create income outside the platform.

There is no single method that works for every creator. Choose a niche, create original content consistently, understand your audience, and test monetization options that naturally fit the type of videos you produce.

EARN 100$ INSTANTLY DOING 2 SHORT SURVEYS (100% GUARANTEED)