Quick Answer: The best cashback sites in Canada include Rakuten, Swagbucks, TopCashback, Great Canadian Rebates, and Paymi. You can earn cashback through online shopping portals, browser extensions, receipt-scanning apps, survey platforms, and financial product sign-ups. The easiest ways to earn cashback in Canada include shopping through Rakuten, uploading receipts to apps like Checkout 51, linking your debit or credit card to Paymi, and taking advantage of high-value bonuses through Finder Canada and GeniusCash. Legitimate cashback platforms pay you a portion of your purchase back, either as cash, gift cards, or points, and can be stacked with rewards credit cards for maximum earnings.

Introduction: What Are Cashback Sites and How Do They Work in Canada?

Cashback sites and apps give you a portion of your money back when you shop at a partner retailer. If you spend $100 at a store that pays 5% cashback, you get $5 back. It is a simple way to get rewarded for your regular shopping.

These platforms work by earning a commission from retailers when they send customers their way. Instead of keeping the entire commission, cashback sites share a portion of it with you. This creates a win-win situation: retailers get sales, cashback sites get commissions, and you get money back on purchases you were already planning to make.

For Canadian shoppers, cashback sites offer a unique advantage: access to both Canadian and international retailers, with payouts in Canadian dollars and integration with Canadian banks and payment systems. Whether you're shopping at Canadian Tire, Sephora, Best Buy, or Amazon, there's likely a cashback platform that pays you for your purchase.

To help you find the best deals, our team at Finder Canada has reviewed legitimate options available today. We have included our own Finder Rewards program because of its high-value financial bonuses. However, we have also included other heavy hitters to help you decide which platform is the best fit for your specific shopping habits.

I have the Rakuten and TopCashback browser extensions installed (Great Canadian Rebates doesn't offer one), so I'm automatically notified of any cashback opportunities available when I visit a partner retailer's website. How Should I "Stack" These Cashback Sites to Maximize My Earnings?

It's easy to boost your cashback earnings by combining multiple rewards sources on a single purchase. When you combine a rewards credit card, a cashback shopping platform, a store loyalty program and a site that rewards you for uploading receipts, you can potentially earn cashback multiple times on one transaction.

Let's look at some popular examples of cashback stacks you might like to try.

Overall Stack

Shop online at Rakuten to earn 1% – 10% cashback.

Pay for your purchase with the cash back credit card of your choice. One option is the Tangerine

Money-Back World Mastercard, which pays unlimited 2% cashback on 3 spending categories of your choice.

Upload your receipts to an app like Receipt Hog or Receipt Jar to earn up to 20 points (worth approx. $0.005).

Grocery Stack

Here's a simple stack that can help you earn more cashback on your day-to-day grocery spending:

Let's say you spend $200 on your weekly grocery shop.

Activate weekly offers in Checkout 51 for items you regularly purchase. Let's say there are two items in your weekly shop, which will equate to anywhere from $1 to $10 cashback when you upload your receipt.

Pay for your purchases with a BMO CashBack World Elite Mastercard, which offers 5% cashback on groceries ($10).

You've just saved up to $20 off your grocery bill.

Dining Out (or Home Delivery) Stack

Hate cooking? Here's how to get rewarded for your healthy appetite for restaurant and home-delivered meals:

Dining out? Pay with the American Express Cobalt Card, and you'll earn 5x points for every $1 spent. Upload your receipt to ReceiptJar to earn up to 20 points (approx. $0.005).

Ordering home delivery? Buy an Uber Eats e-gift card on Snaplii and earn 7% cashback. Pay with a Simplii Financial Cash Back Visa, which offers 4% cashback.

Online Shopping Stack

Let's look at an example of another stack that can help people who do most of their shopping online:

Shop online at Rakuten, where you spend $100 on beauty products at MAC Cosmetics and earn 4% cashback ($4).

If you pay with a Scotiabank Scene+ Visa Credit Card, you'll also earn 100 Scene+ points ($1).

Link your Scene+ membership card to Rakuten, and you also earn 100 Scene+ points for every $1 of cashback you earn shopping through Rakuten ($4).

Upload your MAC Cosmetics purchase receipt to Receipt Hog to earn 20 points (approx. $0.005).

Driving Stack

Cover a lot of kilometres behind the wheel each week? Use this cashback stack to save on gas:

Pay with a Scotiabank Momentum Visa Infinite to get 4% cashback.

Become a Petro-Canada Petro-Points member to get 10 Petro-Points per litre of fuel (1,000 points = $1).

If you're an Avion Premium member, link an eligible RBC card to your Petro-Points membership to save 3 cents per litre on fuel, plus earn 20% more Petro-Points and 20% more Avion points.

Can You Combine Cashback Sites with Credit Card Perks?

Yes! In fact, combining cashback sites with credit card perks is a great way to increase your earning potential. All you have to do is make your purchase by clicking through the cashback site, app or browser extension, then pay with the cashback rewards credit card of your choice.

This is a simple and effective way to boost your rewards, but there are a few factors to be aware of:

Cashback rates vary. Many cards pay different cashback rates across different spending categories. The credit card that pays the highest rewards for gas and grocery purchases may offer a much lower rate for online shopping, for example.

Limits apply. Many cards limit the maximum amount of cashback you can earn per month or per year, so check the fine print.

Annual fees. The cards that pay the highest rewards generally come with annual fees. You will need to work out whether the cashback rewards and other card perks are enough to offset the annual fee, or otherwise opt for a no-fee card.

What Are the Scams or Risks to Watch Out For?

While legitimate cashback sites offer genuine opportunities to earn money back, there are some risks and potential scams to be aware of:

Potential for overspending. Be careful not to let a juicy cashback offer tempt you into making a purchase you don't need. Only use cashback sites for your regular spending.

Privacy concerns. Check the fine print of any cashback site or app to find out how your shopping data will be used. What information is collected, how is it stored, and is it sold to advertisers or other third parties?

Tracking failures. Research just about any cashback platform, and you'll find complaints from users who claim that they made the required purchase but didn't receive cashback. Check with the cashback site about how to avoid tracking errors (like downloading a browser extension or turning off ad blockers) and what you can do if you think you're owed cashback.

Slow payouts. Check the fine print to find out how long you will have to wait for the cashback to be credited to your account and how long it will take for your withdrawal to be processed.

High minimum withdrawals. You don't want to be waiting ages to get your hands on your money, so check the site's minimum withdrawal limit before signing up.

Scam sites. Fake cashback sites use phishing tactics to try to capture your sensitive personal information and credit card details. Research any site or app carefully to make sure it's legit before you create an account.

Frequently Asked Questions

What are cashback sites?

Cashback sites are online platforms that pay you a portion of your purchase amount back when you shop at partner retailers. They earn a commission from retailers for sending customers their way and share a portion of that commission with you. This creates a mutually beneficial arrangement where retailers get sales, cashback sites get commissions, and you get money back on purchases you were already planning to make.

Can I stack cashback browser extensions?

Technically, you can install multiple cashback browser extensions, but using them simultaneously on the same purchase is not recommended. Most cashback sites have terms and conditions that prohibit using multiple cashback platforms on a single transaction. Additionally, having multiple extensions active can cause tracking conflicts, potentially resulting in no cashback being awarded. Instead, choose the extension that offers the highest cashback rate for each specific purchase.

How much cashback can I earn on the best cashback sites?

The amount you can earn varies significantly depending on the platform and the type of purchase. Retail cashback sites like Rakuten typically offer 1% to 10% cashback, while some platforms like BeFrugal offer up to 40% on select retailers. Financial product cashback sites like Finder Canada and GeniusCash offer $25 to $250+ per product. Receipt-scanning apps typically pay small amounts per receipt, ranging from $0.10 to $2.00. Your total earnings depend on how frequently you shop and how consistently you use cashback platforms.

Can anyone join cashback sites in Canada?

Most cashback sites in Canada are available to all Canadian residents who are of legal age (18 or 19, depending on the province). Some platforms may have additional requirements, such as linking a Canadian bank account or credit card for payouts. Financial product cashback sites may require you to meet eligibility criteria for the specific products you're applying for. Always review the terms and conditions of any cashback platform before signing up to ensure you meet the requirements.
