Quick Answer: The best game apps that pay real money in Canada include Freecash, Testerup, Swagbucks, HeyCash, Prime Opinion, Mistplay, Skillz, and Solitaire Cash. You can earn from $0.50 to $1,000 per game by reaching in-game milestones, leveling up, and completing challenges. The easiest ways to make money playing games in Canada include playing mobile games on Freecash, testing apps on Testerup, earning Swagbucks points through gameplay, and using Mistplay for mobile gaming rewards. Legitimate game apps pay via PayPal, Interac e-Transfer, gift cards, prepaid Visa cards, or cryptocurrency, and offer low minimum cash-out thresholds.

Introduction: Can You Really Get Paid to Play Games in Canada?

Getting paid to play games might sound too good to be true, but it isn't. There are plenty of legit game apps that pay real money to play, so you can earn some extra cash (and have fun too) in your spare time. Here are popular game apps to make money in Canada.

The concept is simple: game developers want more players, higher engagement, and longer play sessions. To achieve this, they partner with get-paid-to platforms that reward users for reaching specific milestones. Instead of spending money on traditional advertising, they pay you directly for your time and engagement.

This creates a win-win situation. Game developers get real players who engage with their games, and you get paid for doing something you might already enjoy. The key is understanding which platforms offer legitimate opportunities, how their reward systems work, and how to maximize your earnings without falling into gambling-like traps.

Freecash app

Why Freecash Stands Out for Canadian Gamers

Freecash has established itself as the premier destination for gamers who want to monetize their playtime. The platform's partnership with major game developers means you'll find offers for popular titles with substantial rewards. The earning potential of $50 to $1,000 per game is among the highest in the industry.

What makes Freecash particularly attractive is its flexibility. You can withdraw your earnings through multiple methods, including cryptocurrency—a unique feature among game reward platforms. The 30-minute payout processing time is also among the fastest available.

The platform's Trustpilot rating of 4.7/5 based on over 273,000 reviews speaks to its reliability and user satisfaction. However, the 5% PayPal withdrawal fee is worth noting, and new users may find their initial offers limited until they build up their account standing.

1. Testerup

Earning potential: Earn up to $800

How it works: Testerup lets you earn money by testing apps and products, playing games and completing online surveys. After signing up, you can browse available offers, choose the ones you like and earn rewards by reaching specific in-app goals, such as installing an app, leveling up in a game and making a deposit.

Popular games available on Testerup include:

Monopoly Go!: A mobile twist on the classic board game that lets you collect properties, complete events and earn rewards as you progress.

Coin Master: A casual slot-style game where you spin to earn coins, build villages and raid or attack other players.

Raid: Shadow Legends: A fantasy role-playing game with turn-based battles where you recruit and upgrade powerful characters and complete missions.

Gardenscapes: A tile-matching puzzle game where you restore and decorate a garden by solving different levels and earning stars to unlock new areas.

Travel Town: A merge puzzle game in which you combine items to create new ones and explore different locations while building your travel destination.

Testerup app

Why Testerup Stands Out for Canadian Gamers

Testerup offers one of the highest earning potentials in the game reward space, with users able to earn up to $800 through offers. The platform's focus on app testing alongside game playing provides variety for users who want to mix up their earning activities.

The platform is particularly appealing for users who enjoy strategy games and RPGs, with popular titles like Raid: Shadow Legends and Monopoly Go! regularly available. However, the $55 minimum withdrawal threshold is significantly higher than many competitors, meaning you'll need to invest substantial time before you can cash out.

Testerup's requirement that some tasks need in-app purchases to progress faster is a double-edged sword. While it can accelerate your earnings, it also means you're spending money to make money—which defeats the purpose for many users.

1. Swagbucks

Earning potential: Approximately 100 to 25,000 SB (100 SB = $1)

How it works: Swagbucks offers an online library of games that you can also access via the Swagbucks app on your Android or iOS device. These are game apps that pay real money, and you'll earn Swagbucks points (SB) for playing games and completing tasks.

Cash-out minimum: $5 for gift cards or US$25 minimum for PayPal

Swagbucks app

Why Swagbucks Stands Out for Canadian Gamers

Swagbucks is one of the most established names in the rewards industry, and its game offerings are extensive. The platform's versatility is its greatest strength—you can earn SB through gaming, surveys, shopping, and even searching the web.

The low minimum cash-out of $5 for gift cards makes Swagbucks accessible for casual users. The platform regularly offers sign-up bonuses and promotional events that can boost your earnings. However, the PayPal minimum of US$25 is higher than some competitors, and the value of SB (1 cent each) means you need to accumulate significant points for meaningful cash.

Swagbucks' game library includes a mix of casual puzzle games, strategy titles, and RPGs, ensuring there's something for every gaming preference.

1. HeyCash

Earning potential: $0.50 to $120 per game

How it works: If you download and play games on your smartphone and complete in-game challenges, you can earn rewards. Simply find available games from your account dashboard, and check out what in-game tasks you need to complete and in what time frame.

Cash-out minimum: US$1 for the first withdrawal, but subsequent withdrawals are available from $2 or US$1.00.

Popular games available on HeyCash include:

Eatventure: A restaurant management and cooking game where you can prepare dishes, expand your kitchen and serve customers to earn rewards.

June's Journey: A hidden-object mystery adventure set in the 1920s, where you solve puzzles and uncover secrets to progress.

The Grand Mafia: A strategy game where you build your criminal empire, recruit gang members and battle rivals to become the city's top mafia boss.

Puzzles & Chaos: Frozen Castle: A match-3 fantasy strategy game set in an ancient frozen land.

Raid: Shadow Legends: Summon over 800 heroes to do battle in this dark fantasy RPG.

Heycash app

Why HeyCash Stands Out for Canadian Gamers

HeyCash offers one of the lowest minimum cash-out thresholds in the industry, with first withdrawals available from just US$1. This makes it incredibly accessible for users who want to test the waters before committing significant time.

The platform's 10-minute payout processing time is among the fastest available, and the variety of cash-out options—including gift cards for popular services like Uber Eats and Lyft—provides flexibility. The iOS app rating of 4.7/5 based on 44,000+ reviews is particularly impressive.

However, the points system (1,000 points = US$1) can be confusing, and points expire after one year, so you'll want to cash out regularly to avoid losing earnings.

1. Prime Opinion

Earning potential: Rewards commonly range from 100 to 90,000 points per offer (1 point = US$0.01).

How it works: Though it's best known as a paid survey platform, Prime Opinion also lets you make real money by playing games and achieving in-game milestones. Find games in the offers section of your account.

Cash-out minimum: $6

Why Prime Opinion Stands Out for Canadian Gamers

Prime Opinion has built a strong reputation as a survey platform, but its game offerings are equally compelling. The platform's points system is straightforward (100 points = US$1), and the $6 minimum cash-out is accessible for most users.

The variety of gift cards—over 65 options—gives users plenty of flexibility in how they receive their rewards. The ability to donate to charity is also a nice touch for users who want their gaming to support good causes.

Prime Opinion's mobile apps are highly rated, making it easy to play games and earn rewards on the go. The platform processes payouts quickly, with many users reporting receiving their funds within minutes.

Family Island: This farming game sets you on a desert island, where a modern Stone Age family can explore new territory, solve puzzles and build a city.

Coin Master: A casual slot-style game where you spin to earn coins, build villages and raid other players for rewards.

Dice Dreams: A dice-rolling game where you collect coins, upgrade your kingdom and compete with friends.

Rummy Rush: A fast-paced card game based on rummy, where you match cards and compete in quick rounds to win prizes.

Whiteout Survival: A survival strategy game set in a frozen apocalypse where you manage resources, build a city and protect survivors from threats.

Mistplay app

Why Mistplay Stands Out for Canadian Gamers

Mistplay is unique among game reward platforms because it's specifically designed for mobile gamers. The platform's Android app has an impressive 4.5/5 rating based on over 994,000 reviews, indicating strong user satisfaction.

The platform offers a good variety of games across different genres, from farming simulations to survival strategy games. The low $5 minimum cash-out for gift cards makes it accessible, and the wide range of gift card options provides flexibility.

However, the maximum earning potential of US$550 per year is lower than some competitors, and the platform only supports PayPal and gift cards for withdrawals. Mistplay is best suited for casual gamers who want to earn a little extra while playing games they enjoy.

1. Skillz

Earning potential: Varies by game and skill level; top players can earn hundreds per month

How it works: Skillz hosts skill-based mobile game tournaments where you compete against other players for cash prizes. Unlike casino-style games, Skillz games are based on skill, not chance. You can play games like Solitaire Cube, Blackout Bingo, and 21 Blitz.

Cash-out minimum: Varies by game

How to get paid:

Popular games available on Skillz include:

Solitaire Cube: A fast-paced solitaire game where you compete against other players for cash prizes.

Blackout Bingo: A competitive bingo game where speed and accuracy determine winners.

21 Blitz: A blackjack-style game with a twist—compete against others for the highest score.

Bubble Shooter: A classic bubble-popping game with competitive tournaments.

Dominoes Gold: A dominoes game where skill determines your cash winnings.

Why Skillz Stands Out for Canadian Gamers

Skillz offers a different model from traditional get-paid-to game apps. Instead of paying you for reaching milestones, Skillz lets you compete in tournaments where skilled players win real cash. This appeals to gamers who want to monetize their skills rather than just their time.

The platform emphasizes that its games are skill-based, not gambling. This is an important distinction, as it means Skillz operates legally in most jurisdictions, including Canada. However, some games require entry fees, which means you're risking money to win money—a model that doesn't appeal to everyone.

For skilled players, Skillz can be lucrative. Top players can earn hundreds of dollars per month through consistent tournament wins. However, casual players may find it difficult to profit after accounting for entry fees.

1. Solitaire Cash

Earning potential: Varies; skilled players can earn $50 to $500+ per month

How it works: Solitaire Cash is a skill-based solitaire game where you compete against other players for cash prizes. You play classic solitaire, and your score determines your ranking in tournaments. Higher scores win larger prizes.

Cash-out minimum: $5

Solitaire Cash: Classic solitaire with competitive tournaments and cash prizes.

Why Solitaire Cash Stands Out for Canadian Gamers

Solitaire Cash combines the familiarity of a classic game with the excitement of competitive tournaments. If you already enjoy solitaire, this app lets you potentially earn money from a game you'd play anyway.

The skill-based nature of the game means that better players consistently earn more. Unlike casino games, success in Solitaire Cash depends on your ability to solve the puzzle quickly and accurately.

However, the entry fee model means you're risking money to win money. If you're not confident in your solitaire skills, you might lose more than you earn. The app is best suited for players who are genuinely skilled at solitaire and enjoy the competitive aspect.

What Are the Best Games and Game Apps to Make Money in Canada?

If you're searching for legit game apps that pay real money, apps like Testerup, Mistplay, Swagbucks, Prime Opinion and HeyCash are well worth checking out. All offer a huge range of games and a variety of rewards to choose from. And if you check the latest game offers in your account, it's easy to find ways to maximize your earning potential.

As for individual game apps that pay you real money, Reddit users mention a diverse range of titles worth considering. These include Monopoly GO, Bubble Cash, Animals & Coins, Solitaire Cash and Bingo Island. However, it's worth noting that some of these games require you to deposit money to play or pay an entry fee, so be very wary of spending any real cash in-game.

The best free real money game apps will also vary depending on what offers are available at any given time, so check the offers section of your account to find the most lucrative games.

Expert Insight

"I've tested several of these game apps, including Prime Opinion, Testerup and Swagbucks. They offer a legitimate and fun way to make money online, but not a quick way. Completing game levels and reaching reward milestones often took me several hours when I was only earning a few dollars for each task. Many games also required in-app purchases to level up, which I avoided, meaning I wasn't always able to complete every task and move on to higher-paying rewards. If you're already playing the games offered on these platforms, these game apps can be a good way to make money. Otherwise, your time may be better spent elsewhere."

Tips to Make Real Money-Making Game Apps Worth Your Time in Canada

1. Check for the Latest Offers

From Swagbucks to Mistplay and all other game apps that pay you real money in Canada, check your account to find out about current game offers available. Offers change frequently, and new high-paying games are added regularly.

1. Look for Low Minimum Cash-Outs

Find apps with low minimum withdrawal limits so you can cash out quickly, and withdraw funds regularly in case your reward points expire after a certain period. HeyCash and Prime Opinion offer some of the lowest thresholds.

1. Watch Out for Withdrawal Fees

Check the fine print to find out whether the app charges a withdrawal fee when you cash out. Freecash, for example, charges a 5% fee for PayPal withdrawals, which can eat into your earnings.

1. Find Games You Enjoy

It's a lot easier to make money playing games when you find games that you actually enjoy. If a particular game is too much of a time-consuming grind, look for other options instead. The best approach is to treat game rewards as a bonus for activities you'd do anyway.

1. Use Multiple Apps

Take advantage of temporary offers by rotating between two or three legit apps. Different platforms have different game libraries and offer different reward rates, so being on multiple apps increases your opportunities.

1. Set Realistic Expectations

Don't expect to replace your income with game apps. Most users earn a few dollars per week at most. Treat these platforms as a way to earn small rewards for time you're already spending on mobile gaming.

1. Track Your Time Investment

Keep track of how much time you're spending to reach reward milestones. If a game requires 10 hours of play to earn $5, that's effectively $0.50 per hour—not a great return. Focus on games that offer better time-to-reward ratios.

1. Avoid In-App Purchases

Many game offers require in-app purchases to progress faster or reach higher reward tiers. Avoid spending real money unless you're confident the return on investment makes sense. In most cases, the cost of in-app purchases exceeds the rewards you'll earn.

1. Cash Out Regularly

Points and rewards can expire, and platforms can change their terms. Cash out as soon as you reach the minimum threshold to ensure you receive your earnings.

1. Read User Reviews

Before committing time to a new game app, check Trustpilot and Reddit for user experiences. This can help you identify platforms with reliable payouts and avoid those with common complaints.

Watch Out for Games That Are More Like Gambling in Canada

Search the most popular game apps that pay real money and you'll find that many of them seem a lot more like gambling than gaming. These games often require you to pay to play, and some feature the types of activities you'd find in a Vegas casino — slots, blackjack and the like.

Be very wary of any game that requires you to fork out cash to play. It's easy to get swept up in the excitement and spend more than you want to, and some games can be highly addictive. Instead, look for free games that don't require any investment from you.

Red Flags to Watch For

Entry fees: Games that require payment to start playing

Deposit requirements: Platforms that ask you to deposit money before earning

Slot-style mechanics: Games that mimic casino gambling

Cash-out delays: Platforms that make it difficult to withdraw your earnings

Aggressive upselling: Constant prompts to spend money on in-game items

No free options: Games that can't be played without spending money

Safe Alternatives

Stick with platforms that offer free-to-play games with reward opportunities. Freecash, Swagbucks, and Mistplay all offer games that don't require any upfront investment. These platforms generate revenue from advertising and partnerships, not from players' deposits.

Frequently Asked Questions

Can you make money playing games on your phone in Canada?

Yes, you can make money playing games on your phone in Canada through legitimate game reward apps. Platforms like Freecash, Swagbucks, Testerup, HeyCash, Prime Opinion, and Mistplay pay users for reaching in-game milestones, leveling up, and completing challenges. Earnings range from a few cents to hundreds of dollars per game, depending on the offer and time invested. However, it's important to set realistic expectations—most users earn modest amounts that supplement rather than replace regular income.

Are there any free real money game apps in Canada?

Yes, many game apps that pay real money are free to use. Freecash, Swagbucks, HeyCash, Prime Opinion, and Mistplay all offer free-to-play games with reward opportunities. You don't need to deposit money or pay entry fees to earn. Be wary of any app that requires payment upfront—legitimate reward platforms generate revenue from advertisers and game developers, not from users' deposits. Apps like Skillz and Solitaire Cash require entry fees, so they're not truly "free" money-making options.

How will I get paid from game apps in Canada?

Payment methods vary by platform but commonly include:

PayPal: The most common payment method, accepted by all major platforms

Gift cards: Options include Amazon, Google Play, Apple App Store, and dozens of other retailers

Prepaid cards: Visa and Mastercard prepaid cards are available on some platforms

Cryptocurrency: Freecash offers Bitcoin, Litecoin, Dogecoin, and Ethereum withdrawals

Charitable donations: Some platforms let you donate your earnings to charity

Bank transfer: Less common but available on select platforms

How can I make $100 in Canada playing games?

Making $100 through game apps requires strategic effort and patience. Here are some approaches:

Focus on high-paying game offers: Freecash offers games paying $50 to $1,000, though these require significant time investment.

Complete multiple offers across platforms: Use Freecash, Testerup, and Swagbucks simultaneously to maximize opportunities.

Prioritize app testing: Testerup pays for app testing, which often has higher rewards than standard game offers.

Take advantage of sign-up bonuses: New user bonuses on Freecash, Swagbucks, and Prime Opinion can jumpstart your earnings.

Combine games with surveys: Prime Opinion and Swagbucks offer both, allowing you to earn from multiple activities.

Realistically, earning $100 might take several weeks of consistent effort. The most successful users treat game apps as a supplemental income source rather than a primary one.

Do I have to pay taxes on money earned from game apps in Canada?

In Canada, income earned from game apps is generally considered taxable income by the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA). If you earn a significant amount or treat game app earnings as a regular source of income, you should report it on your tax return. Keep records of your earnings and consult a tax professional if you're unsure about your obligations. The CRA requires you to report all income from all sources.

Which game app pays the most in Canada?

Freecash offers the highest earning potential at $50 to $1,000 per game, followed by Testerup at up to $800. However, the highest-paying offers typically require the most time investment and may require in-app purchases. For consistent, achievable earnings, platforms like Swagbucks, HeyCash, and Prime Opinion offer more modest but reliable rewards. Skillz and Solitaire Cash offer tournament-based earnings that depend on your skill level.

How long does it take to earn money playing games in Canada?

The time required to earn meaningful rewards varies significantly:

Quick rewards: Some game offers pay $0.50 to $5 for completing simple tasks in 10-30 minutes

Medium-term rewards: Reaching specific levels might take 5-20 hours and pay $5-$50

Long-term rewards: High-paying offers ($50-$1,000) can require weeks or months of consistent play

The effective hourly rate is often low, typically ranging from $0.50 to $5 per hour. Game apps are best viewed as a way to earn rewards for time you're already spending on mobile gaming.

Can I use multiple game apps at once in Canada?

Yes, using multiple game apps is a recommended strategy for maximizing earnings. Different platforms have different game libraries, and rotating between 2-3 apps allows you to take advantage of temporary offers. However, avoid playing the same game on multiple platforms simultaneously, as this can violate terms of service and result in account suspension.

Bottom Line

Game apps that pay real money offer a legitimate way to earn extra cash while doing something you might already enjoy. Whether you're playing casual puzzle games on Swagbucks, testing new apps on Testerup, or pursuing high-paying game offers on Freecash, there are opportunities for every type of gamer.

The key to success is setting realistic expectations. These platforms won't replace your regular income, but they can provide a fun way to earn a little extra money in your spare time. Focus on games you genuinely enjoy, use multiple apps to maximize opportunities, and cash out regularly to ensure you receive your earnings.

Be cautious of games that resemble gambling or require significant upfront investment. Stick with legitimate platforms that offer free-to-play games and transparent reward structures. With the right approach, game apps can be a rewarding hobby that puts a little extra money in your pocket.

Whether you're saving for a specific goal, looking to cover small expenses, or simply want to monetize your gaming time, the platforms in this guide offer legitimate opportunities to turn your playtime into earnings.
